quidist musical selections. Mr. Chapman, in his talk, gave a number of illustrations of the decorative art of the ancient cliff dwellers, showing that their treatment of life forms had become purely decorative and symbolic, and that there was no attempt at representing realistic outlines or action of human or animal figures. These were followed by examples of the realistic drawings from the caves, even the crudest of which are remarkable on account of the absence of angular and conventional outlines, while a number of them show a knowledge of form and freedom of action far superior to any work heretofore discovered in this region, and indicating a stage of development strikingly similar to that shown in many of the remarkable drawings found during recent years in caves of the Pyrenees and in southern France. Other drawings from the cave walls proved to be delicate patterns and the gradual development of their use in the decorative treatment of the walls of the caves was clearly shown.

Through the use of these same patterns the development of architectural decoration was further traced through its various stages to its high development in the sculptured friezes of the ancient temples of the Mayas in Central America. Mrs. Barker illustrated her talk with superb specimens of filigree craftsmanship and of work in the precious metals, the specimens being loaned by various owners.

AN ARTIST'S TEA.
Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Harwood entertained most delightfully at tea on Friday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Harwood, who for the past several years resided in France, are members of the local artist colony.

At the home of Mrs. C. J. Roberts, on East Palace avenue, on Friday afternoon, the Ladies Aid society of St. John's Methodist church, was entertained at tea.

CLUB MEETINGS.
Mrs. Florence L. Burdett, who expects to leave shortly for Los Angeles, entertained the Wallace club at her home on East Palace avenue on Saturday.

For Tired Women With Aching Heads

"They help me so much and I find relief as soon as I begin taking your Foley Kidney Pills." Mrs. Frank P. Wood, Morrill, Maine, R. F. D. No. 2.

"Sometimes it seems as if you can't stand the pain across your back. It is just making your life miserable and robbing you of all energy and strength. When you are constantly tired, head aches, nerves, 'on edge,' kidney action painful and burning, then is the time to start in at once on Foley Kidney Pills.

They strengthen the weak, ailing kidneys, improve their action, enable them to throw off the poisons that cause your trouble. Your nerves grow peaceful, sleep becomes sounder, nervous headaches disappear. As Mrs. Wood says, 'I find relief as soon as I begin to take your Foley Kidney Pills.' Be sure you get the genuine Foley Kidney Pills, for they are purely medicinal and contain no harmful drugs.

Sold everywhere.

ATTRACTIONEMENT.
There are three kinds of freedom I claim, I take:
For these will I fight to the end: I will have my own views, my work I will choose,
And keep whom I will for a friend.

Lacking first, I'm a knave; the second, a slave;
Without third, as well might I be Enslaved in a cell or shut up in hell,
The world ruled by black anarchy.

For happy is he, thrice blessed and free,
Who thinks, works and loves as he will;
And I'll help this come true just by grating to you
The same state I hope to fulfill.
—Lannie Haynes Martin.

Friday afternoon. In addition to the members, the guests were: Misses Beckner, Laws, Hull, Rothberg, and Medames Lee Miller and Paul Radin. The dancing class of Mrs. W. G. About Books

Frank H. Spearman, author of "Robert Kimberle" and other novels of the west that have actually been instead of being merely called popular. A Spearman novel means, as a rule, a tense situation drawn around explosive gunmen; but in this latest book, while the deadly gunmen appear in numbers dangerous to De Spain, who is "some quick" on the draw himself and allied with the side of law and order, the sustained interest of the plot is attached to Nan, who, for no fault of her own, is identified with and loyal to the Morgan gang, a band of outlaws and cattle-men making their headquarters at Calabasas and their home at Morgan Gap.

She is the niece of Duke Morgan, a hard-fighting, not very scrupulous, but commanding old fellow, who rules the valley with law sufficient unto himself. Though thoroughly a girl of the west, at home in the mountains, at ease on horseback, and a remarkable shot, she is nevertheless educated as well as beautiful. Also, all she knows of conditions about Calabasas is what she learns from her uncle and her cousin, Gale, and these represent De Spain as a cut-throat and scoundrel. De Spain is a finished gunman, carefully nursing his dexterity with the revolver until such a time as he shall meet, and settle accounts with the murderer of his father, and meanwhile he falls in love with Nan. He meets her many times, but she distrusts him, even when, woman-like, she risks much to aid him after a hard duel in which he has accounted for four men and is badly hurt himself. Gale, whom she dislikes heartily, considers her engaged to him, so the rivalry of the two men furnishes much energy for the development of the plot. The girl eventually learns De Spain's true character and boldly stands by him.

The book is stirring, but of a quality not common among the "exciting" type; it is full of dramatic situations, and some of them are especially vivid and well rounded, notably the one of the scene in Calabasas Inn, when De Spain meets four gunmen at once. The characters are distinctive and interesting—old Duke Morgan himself, implacable old cattleman, with a law of his own that he lives up to, adds much to the merit of the book, and Nan—well, Nan is Nan and well worth reading about.

Other new books: "The Fifth Wheel," Prouty; "Mrs. Golden Woman," Cullum; "Seventeen," Tarkenton; "Behold the Woman," Harre; "Seven Miles to Arden," Ruth Sawyer; "Just David," Porter.

Osteopathic treatment directed to the spine and various organs for all kinds of diseases does seem odd, doesn't it? But how about pouring medicines into the poor stomach for everything—or nothing? Now reason a little.

Loose Teeth Sore Gums

(PYORRHEA)
I am a Dentist of 25 Years Experience. I Have Perfected a Most Successful Home Treatment for the Pyorrhea, the Terrible Tooth and Gum Disease and all its symptoms.

I have found a very successful home treatment for that terrible disease called Pyorrhea or Riger's disease. You may have been told that there is no cure for it, that there is no cure for loose teeth, bleeding, spitting, gums and dropping out of teeth, but many who have used my home treatment say there is AND PROVE IT.

Don't have good teeth pulled. You may save every one of them—make them firm, healthy, sound teeth again. Hundreds of patients say Dr. Willard's home treatment stops the teeth from being loose or wobbly and that it has done so in cases where the patient could almost pull his teeth out with his fingers, where the gums were soft and spongy, bleeding and shrinking away from the teeth. You may make these conditions positively and absolutely disappear and end your Pyorrhea. There is no pain, or fussing, no waste of time.

The letters I will send you from people in all parts of the country will tell you that they now enjoy good teeth, good chewing and a good stomach once more. If you have any of the symptoms mentioned, then Pyorrhea, sometimes called Riger's disease, is on the way—you are bound to lose your teeth and have to wear those awful false teeth if you don't find a cure for it now. Simply send your name and address on coupon below and I will tell you all about this dreadful disease and how my simple home treatment may save your teeth, without pain and at small expense.
